Education, Training and Lifelong Blended Learning

Introduction

Since the inception of London School of Media and Management (LSMM), the notion of experiential and Lifelong Blended Learning has been one of the key areas for our validation and certification in this area endorsed by our Academic Board and Independent Assessors and Verifiers. All our awards are pegged to the National Vocational Qualifications Framework and National Vocational Quality Standards.

We offer business professionals and entrepreneurs the option to enhance their respective professional career status as part of their Lifelong Blended Work Experience and Occupational Knowledge and Validation. This Blended Learning is validated by our independent assessors and verifiers which forms part of the applicants Professional Career Development (PCD). Approved applicants can be awarded their Progressive Professional Diplomas, Postgraduate Progressive Entrepreneurial and Educational Degrees as well any skills-based areas of learning achievements subject to completing and achieving the verification and assessment process.

Our Experiential and Lifelong Blended Knowledge Learning is facilitated by our academic work and learning confirmation process delivered through blended workshops, seminars, questions, and answers, assignments, discussions and presentations. These experiential and lifelong learning qualification awards are most suited to busy working professionals and entrepreneurs who need to confirm and validate their respective professional career progress, knowledge and development.
